Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 14, 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Emery et al (hereinafter Emery) in view of Schellinger.

Regarding claim 14, Emery discloses a method of updating a base station's landline telephone number (updating telephone number associated with personal base station) where a call routing equipment (ISCP 100) via a PSTN (111) is used to effect further call routing. Emery discloses reception of the assigned landline telephone number (via ANI) and the BID (preprogrammed serial number, Col. 17;60-65), where the call routing equipment finds the landline telephone number, determines if the number is equal to a previously stored landline telephone number, and updates the assigned landline telephone number to route calls to when the numbers do not match (note Col. 17;1-10 and 65-Col. 18;7, updating location for identified subscriber, where identification takes place via serial number of base station, note Col. 18;45-68, updating of location if base station moves). Emery further discloses that the base station initiates a call to the call routing equipment (automatic registration, where base dials ISCP) as well as the use of ANI capabilities to provide the call routing equipment with the assigned telephone number (Col. 17;1-10). Emery fails to disclose that the base station sends to the TELCO, the assigned landline telephone number.

On the other hand, Schellinger teaches in an analogous art, a base station (115), connected to call routing equipment (117) via a public switched telephone network (111), where a base station sends the assigned landline telephone number to the TELCO, which is received by the call routing equipment (note Col. 12;13-20). As Schellinger teaches that it is known in the art to transmit an assigned landline telephone number to a call routing equipment, and Emery discloses that it is known to update a base station's stored landline telephone number, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include the base station's transmission of a telephone number in order to reduce the complexity of the public network by sending caller identification information from the user.

Regarding claim 22, Emery further discloses means for receiving the number and the BID (ISCP 100 receiving signals via network), means for storing information (HLR located in ISCP), and means for updating the stored number. Furthermore, the apparatus claim reads upon the corresponding method claim, and is rejected given the same reasoning as in the rejection of claim 14 above.

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Selby discloses a system in which a control station (such as an ISCP) receives registration requests, and if the registration message matches an already registered location, does not re-register with the control station.

4. Claims 27-28 are allowed.

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 14, 22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Art Unit: 2744
